This punctual performance is a new World War II musical, starring our greatest Poirot, was timely but poorly written and produced Behind the Music The Untold Stories of Rock, from the disputes over the division of bands to the greatest performances of all time Your full gaug of the week: TV's movies and sport, through terrestrial and digital platforms Screen Secrets A regular series that tells the stories behind the great success stories of cinema and television A most fascinating failures and A This lackluster thriller, about a speech therapist with a secret and violent past, could and should have been much better He liked to say that he made his first film in 1923, but, in fact, there was a frustrated debut a former Zhenya Perpelitsa, a member of the civil territorial defense forces who once lived in Irã, a law in the library of Hitlerian Farsi result revealing, Martin Kemp and Lady Leshurr formed two bands of 65-year-old musicians, and the results were inspiring and wonderful. The Lecky's adaptation the logo of the BBC Superhoe is a smart cultural commentary with an invaluable soundtrack to boot. This great show at Kensington Palace traces the ways in which British sovereigns have committed themselves to photografa. Barbican's attempt to reassess postwar art is substantial. A but it's also uneven, falls in its central task and demonstrates that lead singer Klaus is very ambitious Meine about how Hannover's five-piece catches an international audience and gave a chance to peace. The spirit and bravery of ordinary Ukrainians has come to life on the airwaves. The director's abrupt has been impressive. A and is surely irreversible.
